

Twitter plug-in

Making external communication available internally as well? COYO's Twitter plug-in keeps your employees up to date, even if they don't have a Twitter account of their own

Functionality

COYO's Twitter plug-in allows customers to integrate the latest tweets from a Twitter account into COYO using a widget. The settings options let you display from one up to 20 tweets. As the tweets are arranged in chronological order, the newest tweet appears at the top of the plug-in's widget.

Use case

Internal and external communication are often not all that different. Customers can use our Twitter plug-in to share external news that they post in their corporate account via Twitter with employees internally in COYO as well. This plug-in is particularly advantageous for employees who do not have their own Twitter account and would not have access to the corporate communication via Twitter without the plug-in.

Availability & price

The Twitter plug-in is available for both the COYO Cloud and COYO Private Cloud as of version 37 and is priced (based on the license model) from €500/ per year.

Five steps to the Twitter plug-in

- Getting in contact with COYO
- Presentation of the Twitter plug-in
- Contract and terms of use
- Obtaining the manifest URL
- Installation and integration

